Wise Talks by the Office Boy

A man ran an ad. in the New York Sunday papers stating that upon receipt of one dollar he would send in a sealed envelope a receipt for saving gas bills. A merchant who sent a dollar received a slip of paper upon which was printed, "Paste them neatly in a scrap-book." There is a familiar name that you should not only paste in your scrap-book, but every man should see that it's pasted in his hat, and that's K. Fisher & Son. That name in a hat or on any kind of a piece of merchandise, means good stuff, and your money back if you want it. My boss believes that if a merchant advertises the sober, plain truth, it will hold customers stronger than all the "hot air" gush that ever happened; that is one of the nice things about such clothing as we have; the quality is so good and the make and fit so perfect that they need no "con game" to make them sell. And right here let me tell you that the new summer suits are in, and we will be glad if you come in and try on some of them. Grays, blacks, browns and blues are all the vogue, and we have them for you.

house when he delivered his speech announcing the approach of spring.

There were fine exhibitions of physical culture and illustrative poses. The class-day exercises were given Saturday night. Address by the president of the class, Miss Helen Turner. The Rev. S. B. Turrittine and J. F. Bruton, was appointed to make recommendations for men to fill the vacancies in the board of trustees. Another committee was also appointed to submit plans for extending the college's usefulness, and the outcome of this will be looked forward to with unusual interest.

The annual report of President Kilgo was submitted. This consisted of the regular matters that are reported yearly to the trustees.
